ConsultingCrossing, the Fastest Growing Consulting Job Board, Surpasses 10,000 Jobs

February 8, 2008

Pasadena, CA — With a job collection that is growing all the time, ConsultingCrossing reached and passed 10,000 jobs this week. The site was able to add more than 3,500 jobs this week alone, which may foreshadow an even greater boost in the numbers in the coming weeks and months.

“ConsultingCrossing is just one example of how our Crossing job boards are rapidly expanding on a daily basis. This week, we’ve added almost 4,000 news jobs to the site — who knows what next week will bring? We want users to have access to the hundreds and thousands of jobs that others never see, and we’re getting closer and closer to achieving that each day,” said CEO A. Harrison Barnes.

ConsultingCrossing charges its users a monthly fee of $29.95 to access its job listings. This fee pays for its team of researchers, programmers, and other staff members who hunt down and post every single consulting job they can on a daily basis. It also allows members to gain access to the other 30-plus industry-specific Crossing job boards. A list of the entire collection of Crossings can be viewed at EmploymentCrossing. A free, seven-day trial of the service is also available.

Students are able to access ConsultingCrossing’s supply of jobs for free while they are in school. This means that students can get a heads-up on all relevant internships and jobs as they near graduation without spending a dime on the service.

In addition to its constant efforts to expand the resources and number of jobs on the site, ConsultingCrossing features weekly stories on consulting-related news and trends.
