October 20, 2008

EmploymentCrossing, one of the world's largest job-board operators, has recently launched DBACrossing. As part of the EmploymentCrossing job-site franchise, DBACrossing seeks to list every DBA job in the United States in one place. Using a proprietary technology, DBACrossing monitors the DBA jobs on every job website and other sources and displays every DBA job it can find in the market. DBACrossing's goal is nothing less than to show job seekers every DBA job available.

Pasadena, CA — A DBA professional is a person who is responsible for the environmental aspects of a database which includes recoverability issues, creating and testing backups, integrity, verification controls, and security. The DBA professional also focuses on the availability and assurance of maximum uptime, along with maximum performance and efficient utilization of the database. DBACrossing, the newly launched job board for DBA professionals, aspires to list a comprehensive collection of researched DBA job openings. The DBA job site features jobs from every possible resource, including job boards and employer websites. DBACrossing aspires to transform the careers and lives of thousands of DBA professionals every week and every day.

According to the US Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average starting salaries for students who earn a diploma in database programming varies, depending on location and level of responsibility. A job in DBA programming is highly sought after and always in demand as predicted by employment trends. The economic outlook and growth potential in this industry is also very good, according to the report. The Bureau of Labor Statistics also states that competition for jobs in this category is very high. Hence, those with practical experience in DBA programming and at least a bachelor's degree in computer engineering or computer science should have the best opportunities.

"In this market it is extremely difficult to get a job with a recruiter, and recruiters typically work with very few companies," says A. Harrison Barnes, founder and CEO of DBACrossing. "Job openings that are not widely known or publicized are the easiest jobs to get."

Press Release

DBACrossing was launched to assist DBA professionals with sorting out the opportunities that they may not find out about otherwise. Unlike other job boards, the site focuses solely on DBA jobs, and it doesn't charge employers to post jobs.

"DBACrossing is a research company that works for job seekers," Barnes says. "We seek to connect you to employers." Barnes also emphasizes that DBACrossing is committed to finding new sources of jobs daily.

"There is an astonishing number of DBA job openings out there. We want to find them all," he says.

DBACrossing charges $29.95 a month to view its job-opening research. As part of the site's launch special, however, DBACrossing is offering a free, seven-day trial to allow job seekers to familiarize themselves with the service.
