Groundbreaking Internship Job Board, InternshipCrossing, Launches with More Than 5,000 Intern Jobs

April 28, 2008

Pasadena, CA — With summer just around the corner, InternshipCrossing (www.internshipcrossing.com), an online intern job board with more than 5,000 current internship openings, launched today, bringing students and young professionals a rich selection of internships.

“No matter what industry you hope to break into, internships are the keys to attaining networks and job leads,” says CEO A. Harrison Barnes.

“We search for these internships — on employer websites, printed ads, and other online resources — in addition to inviting employers to post with us for free. I want students and new professionals to know that we have the most diverse selection of internships they will find. And we will continue to add more internships to the site daily.”

In this time of economic recession, would-be interns actually have increased opportunities, with studies reporting that recent-graduate hiring is on the rise.

According to the National Association of Colleges and Employers \(NACE\) [<http://www.naceweb.org/press/display.asp?year=2008&prid=281>], the job market for 2008 graduates looks promising.

The spring 2008 issue of the NACE’s Salary Survey reports that, for the most part, average starting salary offers to 2007-2008 graduates are increasing.

“The overall change from the average salary offer to all graduates in this report is an increase of 5.3% compared to the overall average to all grads in the Spring 2007 report,” says Edwin Koc, NACE director of strategic and foundation research.
