

Publication Director Jobs

The major job of the publications directors is to see whether all the publications of the firm are carried out effectively. The publication director is accountable for performance of the staff members in the publication teams. The director should be able to efficiently manage the publishing of the firm right from the start till it is published. The director should be able to execute the publication on time and within the budget of the firm. The director should be able to provide vision to the employees and should lead from the front. The director should be able to recruit best possible man power so that the work of publication of the firm goes on smoothly and effectively. Such a director should be a motivator and should be able to boost the morale or confidence of all the publication teams of the firm.

The job of publication director is not an easy one as it is full of responsibility. Making a career in publications is not at all a bad option as there are number of employment opportunities or publishing jobs available in the market. Finding publishing jobs is not at all difficult as people can take the help of internet, local newspaper etc. While searching for the publication jobs you may come across medical publishing jobs, legal publishing jobs, media publishing jobs, publishing sales jobs and many more.

The role and duties of the publication director are not limited. The director should be able to prepare a proper budget in which all the work related to publication can be managed successfully. Such a director should also be able to carry out all the planning work without any flaws. The administration and writing of a contract should be perfectly handled by the director. The publication director should be able to manage all the finances, and time management and problem solving should be the key skills which he/she should possess.

Requirements and skills:

The publication manager should have a minimum of bachelor's degree in field of journalism, but normally a master's degree in such field of mass communication is always preferred. The director should have strong communication skills and great writing skills are required. The director should possess a minimum of one to five years of experience program management, writing etc in the field of publication. He/she should have a supervisory experience in the field of publications.

The publications director should have a proper knowledge about the processes of publications, typographic composition and the process of printing. He/she must be able to work with a team and should motivate team work amongst the publication teams or staffs in order to achieve the desired goals of the firm. The director should also have a detailed knowledge in word, excel, PowerPoint etc. The director should also be able to use the software like Dreamweaver, Photoshop. Creativity and flexibility of work are the major skills which are required the most for the publishing jobs.

Employment outlook:

As publishing is very important for any organization or firm from the point of view of gaining business from the clients or customers, therefore the need and demand of the publishing directors is really significant. The jobs in publications are really gaining importance with the businesses and therefore there are many people who are looking forward to build their future in publications.

The salary paid to the publication director changes from company to company and is based on the experience of the person applying for such publication jobs.

EmploymentCrossing is the largest collection of active jobs in the world.

We continuously monitor the hiring needs of more than 250,000 employers, including virtually every corporation and organization in the United States. We do not charge employers to post their jobs and we aggressively contact and investigate thousands of employers each day to learn of new positions. No one works harder than EmploymentCrossing.

Let EmploymentCrossing go to work for you.