Write Off Your QAQCCrossing Membership Fees When You File Your Taxes

February 18, 2008

Pasadena, CA — In addition to providing users with the largest collection of quality control and quality assurance jobs in the world, QAQCCrossing can also provide an additional benefit to members during tax season. QAQCCrossing users may qualify to write off any job-seeking fees, which include membership fees to QAQCCrossing.

According to the 2006 Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Publication 529 regarding job-search expenses, “You can deduct certain expenses you have in looking for a job in your present occupation, even if you do not get a new job.” Expenses that fall into this category include employment and outplacement agency fees, costs associated with preparing and mailing copies of resumes to prospective employers, and job-seeking travel and transportation expenditures.

“Our ultimate goal is to assist every member of the quality assurance and quality control fields in their professional pursuits. Hopefully with this incentive from the government, we will now be able to help even more professionals,” said CEO A. Harrison Barnes.

QAQCCrossing’s monthly fee of $29.95 pays for access to the findings of hundreds of researchers, programmers, and other staff members who strive to locate and post every active quality assurance and quality control job. In fact, the site, which is less than two months old, has already amassed a database that contains more than 10,600 listings.

This exciting website is affiliated with EmploymentCrossing (www.employmentcrossing.com), the main hub for a growing family of industry-specific job-search sites that launched on April 9, 2007. Currently, job seekers can visit EmploymentCrossing to sign up for QAQCCrossing’s services.

The EmploymentCrossing group of websites is on the fast track to expansion with more Crossing sites launching weekly. EmploymentCrossing will continue to focus exclusively on providing the most extensive range of available jobs from every corner of every sector. This spring watch for the launches of SciencesCrossing, InsurCrossing, BusinessAnalystCrossing, and RECrossing, among others.
